The LTA Training Philosophy

The Leadership Training Academy (LTA) has adopted a continuous training philosophy. It places training content into “modules” that commanders can complete in eight hours or less. This approach gives the commanders many training options to customize a training plan that meets their unique needs! The new LTA approach allows additional modules to be added as new training ideas or program changes are incorporated into Royal Rangers. This makes the LTA a life-long commitment to training!

A major change in the LTA approach is the new training format students will experience when they take the modules. LTA modules will not require homework, exams, or major time commitments outside the module. The major highlights of this approach are:

- Quizzes, no Exams required to pass!
- “On Your Own” experience suggestions, no required homework!
- Everyone who attends passes with a Council of Achievement held at the conclusion of every module!

The training listed here is just the beginning of the type of world-class training that will soon be available to every commander through the LTA!
